Duquesne Light Reminds Customers of Smart Comfort Program October is National Energy Awareness Month

PITTSBURGH – October is National Energy Awareness Month, a time to raise awareness of the importance of sustainably managing the nation’s energy resources. With energy events and activities taking place across the country this month, Duquesne Light is reminding customers about programs and tips to prepare for the changing seasons, in particular with Duquesne Light’s Smart Comfort Program.

The Smart Comfort Program helps customers who qualify understand their energy usage by meeting with a Duquesne Light energy manager in their home. The manager will provide energy education and usage reduction measures through an energy audit.

“With the changing seasons, now is the best time to evaluate your home energy usage,” said Bernie Molchany, Director of Revenue Management at Duquesne Light. “This program is a great way to understand conservation measures, energy education, and learn about resources available to lower your monthly bill.”

There is no charge to qualifying customers for this program. For more information visit Smart Comfort Program on DuquesneLight.com or to schedule an appointment, call 1-866-282-3147.
